

Call for Applications: ESI Postdoctoral Program
For Staff Members of Grigol Robakidze University
Application Deadline: September 1st, 2025
Website: <https://euinstitute.net/postdoc/>

The European Scientific Institute (ESI) invites academic staff members of Grigol Robakidze University to apply for the ESI Postdoctoral Program—a prestigious international academic initiative designed to strengthen research careers and foster global collaboration.

Now in its fifth year, the ESI Postdoctoral Program operates in partnership with 13 universities worldwide and has successfully hosted over 140 postdoctoral researchers. The program offers participants a unique opportunity to:

- Collaborate online with a personal research advisor from one of the host universities.
- Engage in joint research and co-author an article with their advisor.
- Join an online research group (Working Group), contributing to a collective publication under the guidance of a group chair.
- Participate in a research visit of at least 10 days, during which postdoctoral fellows meet their advisors and other fellows, and engage in seminars and academic events.
- Attend a series of online masterclasses focused on research excellence, publication strategies, and academic career development.

Upon successful completion of the program, participants are expected to produce two peer-reviewed research articles—one in collaboration with their advisor and one with their Working Group.

This is a highly competitive and rigorous program intended to provide a substantial career boost and international exposure to researchers.

3 candidates from GRUNI will be accepted to the program regardless the number of applications.

Eligibility:

- A PhD degree in any field.
- Proficiency in English (spoken and written).
- Commitment to actively engage in all components of the program.
